Final Project - Beta Release Notes

As a final release, I would not mind posting this to the app store. I would change a few things if we had more time. I would add more social medias to allow to view. I would also add a messaging system integrated into the app itself so that people could speak back and forth. There are no major crashing bugs that will happen when you use the app. Just minor bugs here and there dealing with the User Interface. For example, when you click one of the buttons to go to your social media, It doesn't do the full animation. Couldn't quite figure that one out. The top button is twitter, right button is Reddit, bottom is facebook, and left is instragram. Make sure when you first open the project, you go into your terminal and where the project is located. Then do a pod install. Else you will have errors that will not let you run it. If it doesn't do a pod install, I would uninstall cocoa pods and reinstall them back.
